I'm a creative and detail oriented professional with a strong passion for digital marketing. At Thrive Marketing, I gained hands on experience in shaping brand identities across diverse digital platforms and understanding how content fits into broader marketing strategies. My role as a Social Media Executive at Loony Heads further honed my communication skills, where I created audience focused content under tight deadlines while also contributing to campaign planning and client coordination. I'm particularly fascinated by how different aspects of digital marketing such as strategy, analytics, branding, and content work together to build a brand's online presence. I'm driven by the opportunity to help brands form meaningful connections through purposeful and impactful marketing initiatives.
